Original teaching

Bring known harm before the Savior

Jesus Christ sees the abuse you suffered and hears your cry. Come to Him with what you know happened and ask for protection, justice, healing, and deliverance. The responsibility for violence, threats, and forced ritual acts belongs to those who committed them. Being used in an evil act does not make it your willing worship or your personal sin. Your life is precious to God.

Establish faith, repentance, and forgiveness

Place your faith in the Jesus who shed His blood, died for sinners, and rose again. Ask the Holy Spirit for new life and surrender yourself to Christ’s lordship. Bring only your own willing sins into confession; if you freely chose occult involvement, renounce that actual choice. Ask for grace to forgive the people who harmed you, including willingness where forgiveness is difficult. Forgiveness releases revenge to God while truthful accountability and protective boundaries remain.

Reject imposed allegiance and confront darkness

Renounce the satanic allegiance demanded through abuse and reject every claim that a ritual made an abuser your spiritual owner. Where relevant, reject known ancestral occult allegiances and connected curses. Repent of your own willing participation and renounce ungodly vows and sinful ties you personally accepted. Let the distinction between willing choices and forced acts remain clear. Then stand in Jesus' authority against spiritual oppression connected with the evil you are rejecting. The Renunciation Guide can help you respond to known facts without an exhaustive retelling or search for hidden memories.

Ask the Holy Spirit to establish restoration

Pray boldly for the Lord to heal wounded trust, overcome shame, and renew your understanding through Scripture. Invite mature, accountable believers to pray with your willing participation. Share what you choose and ask them to honor your privacy. Continue in worship, fellowship, and purposeful obedience. Give time for trust to grow through faithful conduct, keeping needed boundaries in place. Bring returning pain before Jesus and receive His strength for the life He calls you to live.

A complete prayer

Pray in faith, trusting Jesus Christ and the authority of His Word.

Father, I come through Jesus Christ, Your Son. I believe He shed His blood for my sins, died, and rose again. I trust Him as Savior and Lord. Give me new life through Your Spirit and establish me in the truth that I belong to You. I bring before You the abuse I know I suffered and ask for Your healing and deliverance.

You saw the wrong done to me. The violence, threats, and ritual acts forced upon me belong to those who committed them. I bring only my own willing choices into confession. Where I knowingly and freely chose sin or occult involvement, forgive me and cleanse me through the blood of Jesus Christ. Strengthen me to turn from it. Cleanse my life without allowing another person's guilt to define me.

I place before You those who harmed me. I choose to release personal revenge and forgive before You. Where I struggle even to become willing, give me grace and sustain my obedience. I entrust judgment to Your righteousness. Let forgiveness grow without calling evil good, concealing what must be brought into the light, or giving an unsafe person access to my life.

I renounce every satanic demand for allegiance imposed through abuse. I reject the claim that a ritual, dedication, oath, or curse made an abuser or spirit my owner. I reject known ancestral occult allegiances and curses connected with them. Where I willingly accepted an occult practice, ungodly pact, or sinful attachment and soul tie, I repent and withdraw that agreement. I yield my body, relationships, worship, and future to Jesus Christ. My life belongs to God.

Father, overthrow every curse, hex, vex, spell, and incantation directed against me. In the name of Jesus Christ, every evil spirit seeking to exploit this ritual abuse, the imposed dedications, or the willing agreements I have renounced: leave. Release your hold and depart. I resist your accusations and demands. Let every satanic claim give way before the authority of my crucified and risen Savior.

Holy Spirit, fill my life with Your presence and power. Heal my wounded heart, renew my mind through Scripture, and restore courage where terror and shame have pressed against me. Strengthen righteous boundaries and lead me among trustworthy believers. Help me remove what I have renounced and practice the obedience I have offered to You. Establish worship, truth, holiness, and lasting spiritual fruit in my life. In Jesus’ mighty name, amen.
